

“He is Risen! And He is Here!”

Mark 16:1-8

Christ is Risen!! He is Risen indeed!! Alleluia!!

The joy of Easter! The triumph of this day! We celebrate the empty tomb; we celebrate the risen Lord. The angels proclaimed to the women who went to the tomb, “You seek Jesus of Nazareth, who was crucified. He has risen; he is not here.”

You, who have come to God’s House to celebrate this greatest day of the year, “You seek Jesus of Nazareth, who was crucified. He has risen, and He is here.” What a joy that we do not have to search for the Savior of the world. He has risen, and He is here.

In the weeks of Lent, we have turned our attention to the petition of the Lord’s Prayer “Thy Will Be Done.” We have also had the necessity of the death of Jesus for the payment for all sin to be the underlying theme of the Lenten season.

This year, here at Our Redeemer, we have had another underlying theme: “Come and see.” The angel spoke to the women at Jesus’ empty tomb on that first Easter morning and they said, “See the place where they laid Him.” Come and see. He is not here, He is risen.

The women at the tomb were astonished, amazed, filled with fear – you can hardly blame them. But they didn't yet understand what had happened. Jesus had taught them to pray, "Thy Kingdom Come." Their prayer has been answered.

During Lent and throughout Holy Week, we have talked a lot about prayer, as our theme was "Thy Will Be Done," and have made more than a few references to the Lord's Prayer. On Maundy Thursday, we especially looked at prayer (Jesus' three hours of prayer in the Garden of Gethsemane and the petition "And Lead us not into Temptation"). Then on Good Friday, we focused in on the words, "But Deliver us from Evil." And this Easter morning we see that Christ our Lord has delivered us from evil.

Today we also see the answer to the prayer "Thy Kingdom Come". This is a petition we continue to pray that God's Kingdom of Grace, His Church on Earth, would come to me and to you and to everyone that everyone may know the joy of salvation. And we pray for God's Kingdom of Glory, His Church in Heaven, to come – for Christ to return that we may see Him face to face.

"Thy Kingdom Come" is the prayer of those who are longing for the presence of God. The Kingdom of God has come. Don't think of the Kingdom of God as a place around which you can build a fence. The Kingdom of God is wherever Christ the King reigns. He has come into His kingdom. He is risen, and He is here.

Today is a good day also to turn our attention to the conclusion to the Lord's Prayer, "For Thine is the Kingdom and the power and the glory forever and ever. Amen." The Kingdom we pray for; the Kingdom we long for is already His. The reality of the Kingdom of God is present already. The resurrection is a reality. Christ is Risen!! He is Risen Indeed!! Alleluia!! It is what we celebrate this Easter morning. It is here now, but not yet do we see the fullness of all that is to come – the fullness of the power and the glory of God's eternal Kingdom.

On this Easter morning, we celebrate that the Kingdom of God has come. We celebrate the power of God – His power over death. Jesus is risen! Christ is risen! He is no longer in the tomb. We celebrate the glory of God. The glory of the risen Savior; the glory of the empty tomb; the glory of the One and only who could break forth from the bonds of death. Even more, the glory of the One who has broken deaths hold on you and me.

We celebrate Christ our risen Lord – our King who is risen from the dead. We pray "For Thine is the Kingdom and the power and the glory forever and ever. Amen." God's Kingdom is a reality this day. The power and glory of His eternal Kingdom is what we celebrate this Easter morning.

"You seek Jesus of Nazareth, who was crucified. He has risen, and He is here." The risen Christ comes to us in flesh and blood. And we say to all who God places in our lives, "Come and see."

The Easter miracle is the reality of the resurrection of the body. He is risen. The tomb is empty. He is no longer there. But He is here. It is a profound mystery that we are blessed with the physical presence of God Himself as He comes to us under the form of bread and wine. But we get to participate in a miracle. This is a really big deal.

Last week, we had Confirmation and I was thinking about when I received the sacrament for the first time. There is a reason to be excited about receiving this for the first time. That was 36 years ago. I came into this week excited that I would get to receive the body and blood of Christ four times in four days. There is a reason to be excited about receiving this every time.

The broken body and shed blood of Christ was given and shed for you. The Kingdom and the power and the glory of God are here for you. God's Kingdom is a reality this day. The power and glory of His eternal Kingdom is what we celebrate in the resurrection this Easter morning.

"You seek Jesus of Nazareth, who was crucified. He has risen, and He is here." His Kingdom has come. His will is done. He has delivered us from evil. We pray "For Thine is the Kingdom and the power and the glory forever and ever. Amen."

Christ is Risen!! He is Risen indeed!! Alleluia!!

The peace of God which surpasses all understanding, keep your hearts and minds in Christ Jesus.
